

Stories of the girl from the east who wants to move to Montana and marry a rancher.

Of course, the rancher knows that behind the romantic vision of ranch life is the possibility of having to bring newborn calves into your kitchen to survive 20-below nights or the possibility of getting kicked in the head by your horse. Romance and hard work go hand in hand.

So if the first book, Discovering the Montana Brand, had a flair of romance about it, that's a good thing. That romance is what attracts visitors to our state. This book, Using the Montana Brand, is the hard work behind the romance. It's the process, strategy, target and executional considerations we'll need to make the ranch run, so to speak.

THE MAIN PURPOSE OF THIS BRANDING PROCESS IS TO UNITE THE EFFORTS OF THE VARIOUS ENTITIES MARKETING MONTANA WITH A MORE COHESIVE VOICE.

> The process of uncovering Montana's brand took nearly a year and involved the input of hundreds of Montanans, as well as past and potential first-time visitors. Upon determining a target audience that was deemed most likely to visit Montana based on our state's attributes, we:

- + Conducted focus groups that were representative of our target audience. Some participants had previously traveled to Montana, and some had not.
- + Conducted eight meetings across Montana to collect input from more than 350 resident stakeholders.
- + Matched input from both the target audience and stakeholders to determine the most relevant and credible attributes of the Montana brand.
- + Then created three brand pillars and tested them in a survey of 500 travelers screened for attitudes, demographics and behaviors consistent with our target audience.
- + Confirmed through testing that the brand pillars, when communicated the right way, would attract our target to vacation in Montana.

Though each entity marketing Montana has its own variances of execution based on regional or individual differences, the main target, brand pillars and tone of communications can and should apply to everyone. Research shows that this target finds Montana's brand attributes to be both desirable and believable.

THE MONTANA

BRAND

When you're marketing Montana, you might think of our three brand pillars as a hand of cards. We don't play every card every time but played together properly, they should win the hand.

- + MORE SPECTACULAR UNSPOILED NATURE THAN ANYWHERE ELSE IN THE LOWER 48. This is our ace card—the Differentiator. Of the three, this is the one that distinguishes Montana from our competitors—particularly when we "iconify" some of our most outstanding examples such as Yellowstone, Glacier and others. When you have a hand this strong, lead with aces.
- + VIBRANT AND CHARMING SMALL TOWNS THAT SERVE AS GATEWAYS TO OUR NATURAL WONDERS. This is the card that people are surprised we have—the Mitigator. It mitigates people's perception of Montana being remote without denying it. It further shifts the focus from the destination being the town itself to the town being a gateway to our natural wonders.
- + BREATHTAKING EXPERIENCES BY DAY AND RELAXING HOSPITALITY AT NIGHT. This is the card that ties the hand together—the Brand Builder. It leverages our strengths (nature and scenery) to drive up the qualities the audience desires (comfort and exhilaration). And remember, depending on the person, exhilaration is just as easily achieved during a scenic drive as it is scaling our highest peak.

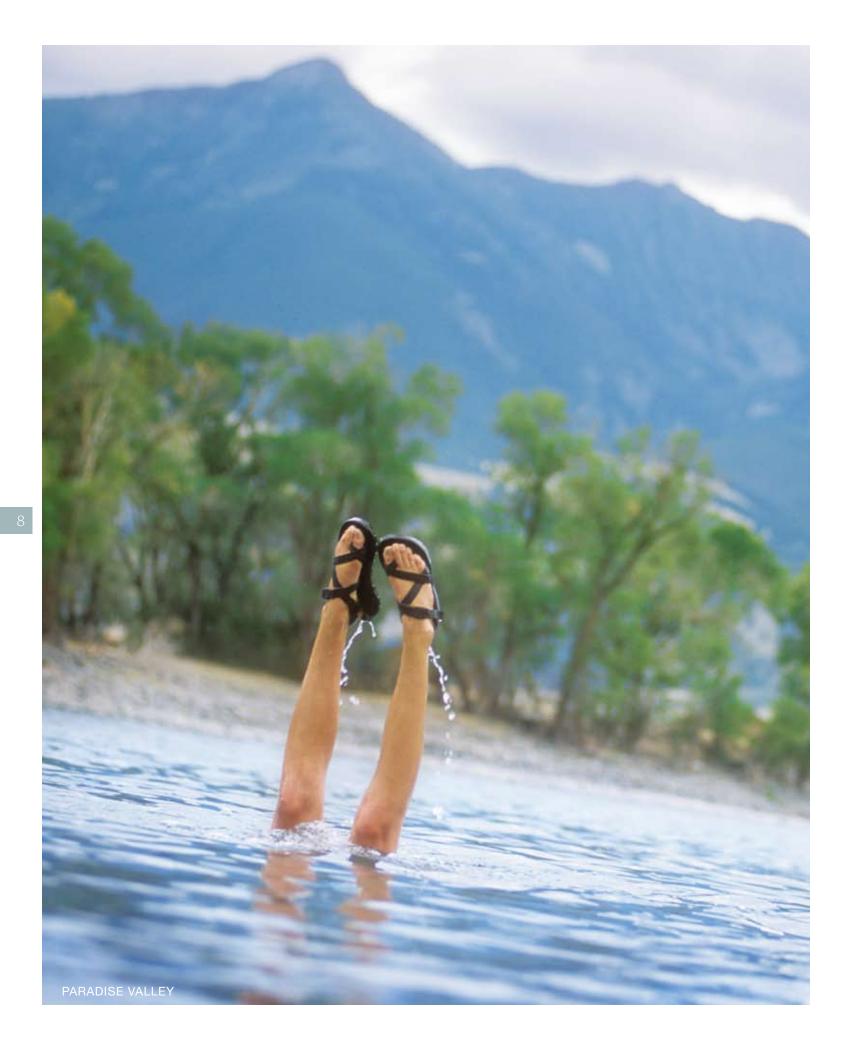

To continue with the card analogy, card games are not merely about the cards you have in your hand. There is a style with which the hand is played that is often rooted in the personality.

about the cards you have in your hand. There is a style with which the hand is played that is often rooted in the personality of each player. Whether you think back to the poker played by the gunslingers of the Old West or the modern-day versions played in tournaments on TV, each player uses his or her certain style, or tone, to try to achieve additional advantage in winning the hand.

In branding Montana, our tone is based on the common personality of the people who live here. When we all use this tone, it further unifies our voice beyond merely the cards—or brand pillars—that we also share.

- + SIMPLE. But not unsophisticated.
- + CONFIDENT. Not arrogant.
- + GENUINE. Not old-fashioned.
- + GROUNDED. But not stuck in our ways.

WHOISTHE TARGET?

Based upon the attributes of the Montana brand, the most likely visitor to our state is an emerging segment called a geotraveler. This group numbers 55 million in the United States alone. Geotourism is defined as:

Tourism that sustains or enhances the geographic character of the place being visited including its environment, culture, heritage, landmarks and the well-being of its residents.

Still not sure what this is? Let us explain a bit more:

- + Geotravelers focus on the experience of the destination—not on checking off a list of must-see attractions. You won't see geotravelers cutting off a conversation with a local because they're late for the theme park.
- + Geotravelers seek the authenticity of people and places. This is something that every corner of Montana is steeped in. These travelers want to discover experiences that can't be found anywhere else. They want to sit in the stands at a small-town rodeo and buy fresh huckleberries from a local farmer at the farmers market. That's why they came here.
- + Geotravelers have multi-faceted interests and will take in a number of attractions during a vacation so long as they are authentic to the culture they are visiting. Their experiences often include signature moments-from hiking Logan Pass to the equally memorable museum and corner café in Glasgow. (And by the way, they loved that scenic drive, too.)

The geotravelers' choice of travel destination is affected by:

- + Their desire to customize their experiences and create their own personal connections when traveling.
- + An emphasis on making the most of every moment due to the lack of time in their day-to-day lives.
- + The pervasive nature of technology in planning their travels and exploring their destinations before they arrive.
- + An interest in immersing themselves in the culture.
- + The ability to get off the beaten path.
- + The capacity to get out of their comfort zone.
- + Their desire to live on a healthy planet.

Psychographically and demographically, geotravelers:

- + Are well educated.
- + Are environmentally aware.
- + Have a strong preference for cultural and social aspects of travel.
- + Are socially conscious.
- + Travel frequently (minimum of three trips per year).
- + Spend a disproportionate amount of their income on travel compared to other travelers.
- + Come from various age groups and income ranges.

LO

FIRST-TIME OR REPEAT VISITOR?

Thanks for asking this question. In many ways, it is the key to unifying our efforts.

Despite how much travelers enjoy our state, in any business there is attrition. And that attrition of old customers must be replaced with the addition of new customers.

The primary goal of the Office of Tourism (and some other entities around the state) is to attract first-time visitors. Because research shows that 67% of first-time visitors travel to Montana because of Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks, these places are our state's strongest icons in attracting geotravelers.

However, this does not diminish the importance of all entities of the state working together to communicate a cohesive brand story to our primary market—the geotraveler. Because after a visitor comes here the first time, there is an 86% chance he or she will return. And on that second, third or fourth visit, that same geotraveler becomes more likely to visit the less-traveled areas of Montana.

Thus, the differences in our efforts do not lie in the brand pillars or the tone in which we should communicate them. All areas of Montana have spectacular scenery, small-town charm and exhilarating experiences. But how those brand pillars are showcased depends on whether your own best potential customer is a first-time or repeat visitor. The pillars can be equally achieved whether you're relaxing over a fine wine in the shadow of the Beartooth Range in Red Lodge or whooping it up at the Montana Bar after a day exploring the coulees around Miles City.

TELLING YOUR MONTANA STORY WITH PHOTOS.

PHOTOS TO ATTRACT THE FIRST-TIME VISITOR

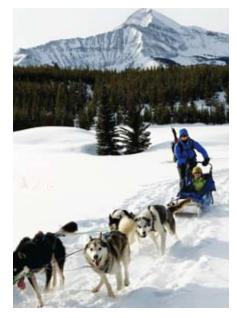

PHOTOS TO ATTRACT THE REPEAT VISITOR

GOOD VS GREAT

+ Montana has an abundance of wildlife. Show the geotraveler something they will remember.

+ Our state has spectacular scenery. Give our audience an opportunity to see themselves in it.

+ The geotraveler appreciates the vistas. Share the whole picture.

+ As the saying goes, a picture is worth a thousand words. Let your photo tell a good story.

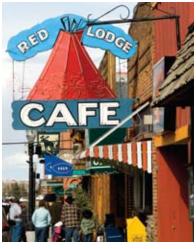

COMMUNICATING VIBRANT & CHARMING TOWNS

Our target is seeking a place that is distinct from their own. Steer clear of strip malls and show specifics that give your town its character.

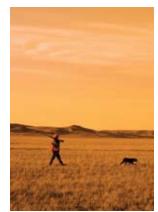

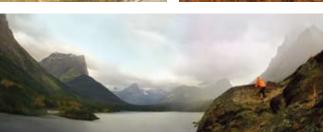

COMMUNICATING BREATHTAKING EXPERIENCES BY DAY AND RELAXING HOSPITALITY BY NIGHT

Use photos that communicate exhilaration. Show people from enough distance that the geotraveler can imagine being engulfed by the landscape and picture themselves there.

TELLING YOUR MONTANA STORY WITH COPY

At its core, a brand is nothing more than a story. And any good storyteller can tell you that the first key to a good story is knowing your audience.

This is perhaps the most common mistake people make in marketing. All too often we make decisions on what copy or photos to use based on the opinions of a friend, a committee, our own personal taste or the classic "what people might think"—never mind who those people are.

When communicating the brand to the geotraveler, the number one thing to keep in mind is the depth of research we have regarding who the geotraveler is and how they receive and interact with marketing.

We recommend using the Montana tone (simple, confident, genuine and grounded) as a barometer with which you can gauge all communications including copy.

ASK YOURSELF A FEW QUESTIONS:

Is this ad simple? Is the copy genuine? Confident? Grounded?

AND ASK THE REVERSE, TOO:

Is the litany of adjectives unsophisticated? Is that "golly gee" a bit old-fashioned? Does it arrogantly suggest that life in Montana is better than where they live? Or just different?

In addition, here are a few tips based on creative testing from a focus group of geotraveler participants:

EMPHASIZE THE UNIQUENESS AND IMPORTANCE OF PLACE.

+ Telling the target that you have 40 places to dine is not as effective as telling them about one that is really unique.

SHOW, DON'T TELL.

+ Clever taglines and other ad-speak are turn-offs—and unnecessary with a brand as rich in real stories and imagery as Montana. Specifics sell, flowery adjectives do not. Don't tell them you're funny, tell them a joke.

MINE THE TENSION.

+ The target wants to know that the unexpected can happen. The telling of other people's stories that include some component of tension can create this.

LET THEM INSERT THEIR STORY HERE

+ At the end of a trip, they want to have their own unique stories to tell. Pre-telling or pre-packaging every minute of their trip is a turn-off to the geotraveler.

QUOTES

FROM GEOTRAVELER CREATIVE TESTING

"I want to use my own imagination, instead of being told exactly what to think about and exactly what I should feel." - Mike

"It serves as a reminder that there is more than jaw-dropping scenery. There are real experiences, people, events and opportunities available . . . either by plan or by serendipity." – Kathleen

"Language that feels like an advertisement takes me out of the moment, reminding me that I am in an ad." – Alexis

INTEGRATING THE MONTANA STYLE GUIDE

The following section is primarily for designers. The brand standards depicted herein have been thoughtfully developed based on the Montana target audience and the tone with which we should communicate the brand. Type and copy have been purposefully designed to not be loud or bold—as that is not representative of our brand. However, designers should also use their own best judgment based on contrast, readability and specific media applications.

MONTANA

LOGO STANDARDS:

LOGO COLOR PALETTE

MONTANA

Use cream or white logo on dark backgrounds.

MONTANA

MONTANA

MONTANA

MONTANA

MONTANA

MONTANA

MONTANA

MONTANA

Use black/colored logo on light backgrounds.

HEAVY OPTION

Use this logo where a heavier logo is warranted, such as when the logo is smaller on a printed page, on outdoor executions or where the logo needs to stand out, such as on a publication in a rack. This version should be used sparingly.

MONTANA

MINIMUM SIZE

Use the logo at a minimum size as shown below. These specifications are appropriate for print; larger minimum sizes may be necessary for other media such as video, film and web. Contact Mercury for help if you must print the logo in an extremely small space, such as on a pencil, lapel pin or book spine.

CLEAR SPACE

Leave adequate clear space around the logo. Use the width of the "M" in the logo as a guideline.

Minimum width: 1.75"

Choose images and positioning that allow sufficient contrast between photo and logo. Use cream or white logo on dark backgrounds.

Use cream or white logo on medium backgrounds.

Use black/colored logo (using colors included in logo color palette) on light backgrounds.

MONTANA

Note: Whenever possible, use the Montana brand logo in conjunction with photography to communicate the brand pillars.

Do not use cream or white logo on light backgrounds.

Do not use logo on busy backgrounds.

Do not use dark logo on dark backgrounds.

MONTANA

Do not alter the proportion of the logo.

MONTANA

Do not use scanned, pixelated or low-resolution versions of the logo.

TYPOGRAPHY LIBRARY AND USAGE:

On the following pages we have put together a library of fonts and formatting recommendations that will help you tell the Montana story. We have chosen fonts that are simple and confident, just like our values.

Good typography establishes a visual hierarchy. We have listed some guidelines to help you make these judgments. Of course we cannot address every conceivable usage. While designing, consider three things: who will see it, where will they see it and the final size of the piece. Will it be in a rack among other brochures? On a billboard viewed for only a few seconds? Or in a print ad aimed at a more senior demographic? Different executions will require different solutions.

Helvetica Neue is the main font family we have chosen for communicating the Montana brand. Variations of this font should be used as recommended. Please keep in mind that the following are recommendations, not required usage guidelines. Unique projects may require unique solutions.

THE MAIN FONTS

Two fonts have been chosen from the Helvetica Neue font collection to fulfill the majority of layout needs.

Helvetica Neue Regular abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyzABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ123456789

Recommended for HEADLINES/TITLES.

Helvetica Neue Light abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyzABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ123456789

Recommended for HEADLINES/TITLES and BODY COPY.

THE SECONDARY FONTS

These fonts complement the main fonts. They should be used sparingly to fulfill project design needs.

Helvetica Neue Ultra Light abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyzABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ123456789

Recommended use for this typeface is as a HEADLINE font, used in uppercase in unison with Helvetica Neue Regular or Helvetica Neue Light.

Helvetica Neue 37 Light Condensed abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyzABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ123456789

Recommended use for this typeface is as an alternative BODY COPY to use when space is limited. For example, publication listings and phone numbers.

Chaparral Pro Light abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyzABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ123456789

Recommended use for this typeface is for BODY COPY. It is a helpful font if you have large amounts of body copy, photo captions or areas where there is a deep hierarchy of information and you need another font to break up the page.

TYPOGRAPHY FORMATTING:

Following are detailed recommendations for formatting typography. For all fonts, leading should be at least 1.5pts greater than font size (default leading is preferred). Size ranges indicate the smallest legible size and indicate flexibility, depending on page layout and hierarchy with other titles and/or text in publications.

HEADLINES

(Helvetica Neue Regular or Helvetica Neue Light)

- + case: all caps
- + size: 12-24pt (or larger, if used in headlines)
- + color
- + magazines: 85%-100% black or darker colors from the brand palette, at 100% (e.g. blue, green, orange, brown)
- + newsprint: 80% black
- + kerning: 80-200% open

HEADLINE ACCENTS

(Helvetica Neue UltraLight)

- + This font is intended only for extremely limited use, to provide interest in headlines or for short sub headers
- + case: all caps
- + size: 15pts or larger
- + color
- + magazines: 100% black or darker colors from the brand palette, screens are NOT recommended
- + newsprint: 100% black (color not recommended)
- + kerning: 80-200% open
- + not intended for the following uses: lower case, long headlines, stand-alone text, body copy, billboards, banners or signs
- + reversed text warning: to prevent registration issues that affect legibility, avoid reversing copy out of photos or process-mixed colors. Do not reverse this font in newsprint.
- + note: a thin stroke may be added for legibility in design layouts or web images

BODY COPY

(Helvetica Neue Light)

- + size
- + magazines: 9-10pt+ newsprint: 10-12pt
- + color·
- + magazines/publications: 85%-100% black (no color)
- + newsprint: 80%-100% black (no color)
- + note: use 100% black if text is smaller than 9pt
- + kerning: 20-35% open
- + reversed text warning: to prevent registration issues that affect legibility, avoid reversing copy out of photos or process-mixed colors, particularly in newsprint

SECONDARY OR ALTERNATE BODY COPY

(Chaparral Pro Light)

- + size:
- + magazines: 9-11pt (captions may be as small as 7pt) it is recommended to set captions in italic
- + newsprint: 10-12pt
- + color:
- + magazines: 85%-100% black or darker colors from the brand palette (e.g. blue, green, orange, brown) at 100% may be used as an accent, but color is not recommended for long text blocks
- + newsprint: 80% black (no color)
- + kerning: 0-70% open

LIMITED SPACE OPTIONS

(Helvetica Neue 37 Light Condensed)

- + size: 8-11pt for magazine/publications
- + size: 9-12pt for newsprint
- + color:
- + magazines: 100% black or darker colors from the brand palette, at 100% (e.g. blue, green, orange, brown)
- + newsprint: 100% black
- + kerning: 0-70% open
- + note: only black is recommended for body copy usage

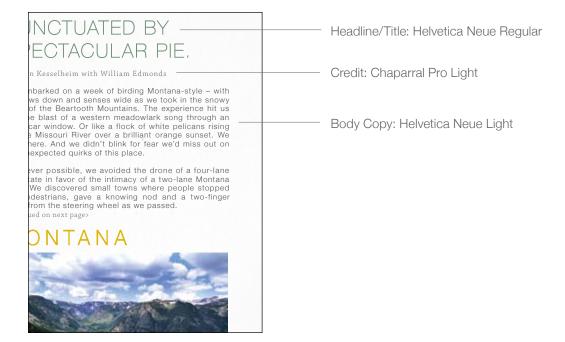

WEB PAGES

- + Arial works well as a visually similar font to Helvetica Neue
- + Times New Roman works well as a visually similar font to Chaparral Pro Light
